

Summary Table of Contents

Foreword	iii
Original Foreword	v
About the Author	ix
Chapter 1. Introduction	2
Chapter 2. The Dimensions of Advocacy	6
Chapter 3. The Mandatory Rules of Advocacy	24
Chapter 4. Advocacy as Theater	38
Chapter 5. The Psychology of Advocacy	64
Chapter 6. The Examination of Witnesses	96
Chapter 7. Direct Examination	114
Chapter 8. Cross-Examination	128
Chapter 9. Re-Direct Examination	154
Chapter 10. Final Argument	160
Chapter 11. Written Advocacy	168
Chapter 12. Advocacy in the Age of High Technology	196
Chapter 13. Conclusion	202
 Appendices
Index	229

Table of Contents

Foreword	iii
Original Foreword	v
About the Author	ix
Chapter 1. Introduction	2
Chapter 2. The Dimensions of Advocacy	6
First Dimension	6
In the Common-Law Countries, a Trial Is Not an Exercise Designed to Discover the Truth	6
Second Dimension	7
Human Beings are Far More Video than Audio	7
Rule 1: You Must Dress Appropriately	10
Rule 2: Don't Be Seen to Be in Too Friendly a Relationship With Your Opponent	11
Rule 3: Don't Smile, Laugh, or Joke without Including the Jury in	12
Rule 4: Appear at All Times to Be Absolutely Sincere	12
Rule 5: Never Convey Any Visual Signal You Do Not Intend to Convey	12
Rule 6: Ensure that Your Factfinder Always Has Something to Look at	13
Rule 7: Use All Kinds of Visual Aids	13
Rule 8: Maintain Eye Contact with the Factfinder	15
Third Dimension	15
People Don't Like Lawyers!	15

Rule 9: Stick Rigorously to the Truth	17
Rule 10: Don't Appear to Be Manipulative	18
Rule 11: Don't Sound like a Lawyer	18
Fourth Dimension	19
Time Is Valuable	19
Rule 12: Don't Repeat Yourself	21
Chapter 3.
The Mandatory Rules of Advocacy	24
Rule 13: Mandatory Rule Number One: In Your Opening Statement, Avoid All Argument and Stick Strictly to Facts	24
Rule 14: Mandatory Rule Number Two: Be Sure, in Your Opening Statement, to State Enough Facts to Justify the Verdict You Are Asking for	26
Rule 15: Mandatory Rule Number Three: The Advocate Must Not Express His or Her Opinion in Court	27
Rule 16: Mandatory Rule Number Four: As an Advocate, Never Give or Appear to Give Evidence Yourself	31
Rule 17: Mandatory Rule Number Five: Never Refer to the Criminal Record of an Accused Person or to Any Offers of Settlement	32
Rule 18: Mandatory Rule Number Six: Never Put Words into the Mouth of Your Own Witness	33

Rule 19: Mandatory Rule Number Seven: In Your Closing Argument, Speak Only of Things that Have Been Touched Upon in the Evidence	35
Chapter 4. Advocacy as Theater	38
Rule 20: Commit to Being an Excellent Trial Lawyer. Don't Do Anything by Halves. If You Can't Dedicate Yourself to This, Move Over and Do Something Else	40
Rule 21: Entertain Them	44
Rule 22: Tell Them a Story	45
Rule 23: Think Beginning, Middle, and End	46
Rule 24: Always Aim to Maintain Your Continuity	46
Rule 25: Keep It Simple	48
Rule 26: Avoid Detail	50
Rule 27: Work at Eliminating Everything that Can Safely Be Eliminated	52
Rule 28: Be Brief	52
Rule 29: Prepare Them for the Boring Bits	54
Rule 30: Know Your Audibility	55
Rule 31: Vary Your Pace and Vary Your Tone	56
Rule 32: Be Aware of Timing and Use the Power of the Pause	57
Rule 33: Be Very Careful about Raising Your Voice	57
Rule 34: Stay Out of the Well	59
Rule 35: Don't Get Too Close to the Jury Box	59

Rule 36: Beware of Getting Too Close to the Witness	60
Rule 37: Plan Your Approach to the Witness Stand	60
Chapter 5. The Psychology of Advocacy	64
Rule 38: The Materials of Advocacy Are Fragile	65
Rule 39: Be Likeable	66
Rule 40: Aim to Create Sympathy between You and Your Factfinder	67
Rule 41: Newton’s Rule	69
Rule 42: Include the Factfinder in! or, the Rule of the First Person Plural	73
Rule 43: Prepare Them	74
Rule 44: Always Aim to Be the Honest Guide	75
Rule 45: Don’t Ask the Factfinder to Believe the Unbelievable	76
Rule 46: When There Is a Weak Point in Your Case, Don’t Pretend that It Isn’t a Weak Point	76
Rule 47: Don’t Misquote the Evidence in any Way at All, and Don’t Put a Slick Interpretation on Any Part of It	76
Rule 48: Make Sure that You Always Come Across as Being Absolutely Fair	77
Rule 49: Keep Your Objections to a Minimum	77
Rule 50: Take Great Care Getting Your Jury out of Court for Bench Conferences	78
Rule 51: Demonstrate Your Competence to Your Judge as Early as Possible	79

Rule 52: Practice Listening Intently	80
Rule 53: Stop Dead in Your Tracks as soon as You Realize Your Sentence Has Become Too Complicated	80
The Coffin Nails Exception	81
The Mark Antony Exception	82
Rule 54: There Must Be an Overall Theme to Your Entire Case, and You Should Be Able to Tell the Story in One Compact Sentence	83
Rule 55, First Part: As soon as You Have an Approximate Idea of What a New Case is About, Sit Down and Write Your Closing Argument	85
Rule 55, Second Part: Sit Down and Write Your Opponent’s Closing Argument	86
Rule 55, Third Part: Sit Down and Perfect Your Closing Argument	86
Rule 56: Show Them the Way Home	87
Chapter 6. The Examination of Witnesses	96
Rule 57: Think Out in Advance the Answer You Want to Hear, and Design Your Questions with a View to Getting That Answer	97
Think Control—Know What You Want the Witnesses to Say, then Make Them Say It	98
Rule 58: Every Examination Should Consist of a Series of Objectives	101
Rule 59: Never Forget That the Average Witness Speaks from Memory	105

Rule 60: Never Forget, You Are Not Dealing with Facts, but with What the Witness Believes to Be Facts	106
Rule 61: Go Gently When You Attack a Witness’s Recollection	107
Rule 62: Never Turn to a Witness for Help	107
Rule 63: The One Line of Transcript Rule	108
Rule 64: Don’t Ask Compound Questions	109
Rule 65: Use Variety in the Format of Your Questions	109
Rule 66: Beware of Demanding the Yes or No Answer	110
Chapter 7. Direct Examination	114
The Rule about Leading Questions	114
Rule 67: The Foundation Rule: Before You May Ask a Witness to Testify on Any Topic, You Must Lay a Foundation Showing How the Witness Has Acquired Knowledge of That Topic	117
Rule 68: In Direct Examination, Remember the Rule of Two and Couple Your Questions Wherever You Can	118
The Murphy Method	121
Getting Documents into Evidence	122
Refreshing Recollection	125
Chapter 8. Cross-Examination	128
Rule 28: Be as Brief as You Can Be	134
Rule 69: Stop When You Get What You Want	135
Rule 70: Use Leading Questions in Cross-Examination	135

Rule 71: Pin Down the Witness:
Don't Spring the Trap until the Witness Is Inside	137
Rule 72: Keep the Record as Favorable to You as Possible by Moving to Strike Any Inadmissible Evidence	139
Rule 73: Ride the Bumps:
Keep Your Dismay a Secret	141
Rule 74: The Minefield Rule:
Never Jump Back in Alarm!	142
Rule 75: Don't Cross-Examine at All unless You Have to	143
Rule 76: Don't Go Fishing	144
Rule 77: Don't Ask Questions to Which You Don't Know the Answer	145
Rule 78: Never Ask "Why?" and Never Ask "How?"	146
Rule 79: Don't Open the Door	146
Rule 80: Don't Let the Witness Repeat Her Direct Testimony	147
Rule 81: Don't Ever Get into an Argument with a Witness	148
Rule 82: Don't Ask the Fatal Final Question	148
Chapter 9. Re-Direct Examination	154
Salvage, Clarification, and Massacre	154
Rule 83: If You Don't Do Re-Direct Well, It's Better You Don't Do It at All: Re-Direct Must Be Done Confidently and Effortlessly	155

Chapter 10. Final Argument	160
Rule 84: It's the Factfinder's Emotion, Not Yours, that Matters	162
Rule 85: Emotion Follows Facts and Not the Other Way Around	162
Rule 86: Too Little Emotion is Fatal: Too Much Emotion is Fatal	163
Rule 87: Acknowledge the Feelings that Have Understandably Been Stirred Up	164
Chapter 11. Written Advocacy	168
Paper Is the Basic Material Used for Written Communication and the Dissemination of Information	168
Rule 88: Lawyers Use Far Too Much Paper	169
Engineering Language	170
Rule 89: Good Legal Writing Is Easy to Read and Interesting, Accomplishing Its Goal in as Few Words as Possible	174
The Body Language of a Document	176
Rule 90: The Appearance of Your Document Is Vitally Important	177
Rule 91: White Space Is User-Friendly	178
Rule 92: Don't Produce a Paragraph Deeper than Four Inches	178
Rule 93: Margins Have an Effect on the Reader	179
Rule 94: Lists of More than Three Items Should Be Vertical, Not Horizontal	179

Rule 95: Use Headings	182
Rule 96: Consider Incorporating Diagrams into Your Writing	182
Pace and Movement	184
Rule 97: Write at the Pace of a Brisk Walk	185
Rule 98: Pay Great Respect to Chronology in Your Writing	187
Paper Is the Basic Material Used for Written Communication and the Dissemination of Information	189
Rule 99: There’s No Rule of Court Which Requires Your Document to Be of a Minimum Length	191
Chapter 12.
Advocacy in the Age of High Technology	196
Video	198
Rule 100: Stay Abreast of Technological Advances	199
Chapter 13. Conclusion	202
Appendices
Why Color Is Critical	205
Common Sense Rules of Advocacy for Lawyers at a Glance	209
How to Succeed as a Lawyer	217
Index	229