

Summary Table of Contents

Introduction	xv
Foreword, by Mike McCurry	xvii
Chapter One:
First Steps	2
Chapter Two:
Tools of the Craft	22
Chapter Three:
Developing a Message and Communications Plan	48
Chapter Four:
Interacting with Reporters	66
Chapter Five:
Overview of the Media: Print, Radio, and TV	92
Chapter Six:
Web-Based and Online Communications	114
Chapter Seven:
Dealing with the Principal	150
Chapter Eight:
Interview Preparation	164
Chapter Nine:
Internal Issues: Experts, Policy, Numbers, Leaks, Lawyers, and Language	180
Chapter Ten:
How to Interact with Congressional Campaign Operations	196
Chapter Eleven:
Communications in a Federal Agency	210
Chapter Twelve:
Crisis Communications in Public Affairs	228
Chapter Thirteen:
Honest Spin: The Ethics of Public Relations	258

Back of the Book

Appendix One:

Thirteen Rules of Media Relations 277

Appendix Two:

Glossary 279

Appendix Three:

Public Relations Society of America Code of Ethics 283

Appendix Four:

Your Right to Federal Records: Questions and Answers
on the Freedom of Information Act and Privacy Act
(General Services Administration and the U.S. Department of Justice) 299

Epilogue:

Remember Gunter Schabowski 335

Index 337

Table of Contents

Introduction xvii

Foreword, by Mike McCurry xix

Chapter One:
First Steps

§1.1 Introduction 3

§1.2 Matching Convictions with a Job 4

§1.3 Getting to Know the Principal 5

§1.4 Assessing Your Strategic Position and Historical Record 6

§1.5 Learning the Office Strategic Goals 7

§1.6 Assessing the Issue Terrain 8

§1.7 Conducting a Resource Assessment 10

§1.8 Asset Inventory 11

§1.9 List Building 13

§1.10 Sample Database Checklist 14

§1.11 Media Directories 15

§1.12 Getting to Know Your Reporters 16

§1.13 Internal Politics 17

§1.14 Creating a Communications Plan 18

§1.15 Finding Teachers and Allies 18

§1.99 Chapter Summary 20

Chapter Two:
Tools of the Craft

§2.1 Introduction 23

§2.2 The First Tool: The Written Word 23

§2.3 How to Test Your Document’s Readability 24

§2.4 Press Release 25

§2.5 Email Press Releases 27

§2.6 Sample Press Release 28

§2.7 Press Advisory 29

§2.8 Sample Press Advisory 30

§2.9 Backgrounders 31

§2.10 Op-eds 31

§2.11 Letters to the Editor 34

§2.12 Speeches 35

§2.13	Press Conferences/Events	36
§2.14	Press Conference Checklist	37
§2.15	Photography	38
§2.16	Direct Mail	39
§2.17	How NOT to Do Congressional Direct-Mail Pieces	40
§2.18	Newsletters	41
§2.19	Radio Feed	42
§2.20	Television Feed	44
§2.21	Video News Release (VNR)	45
§2.22	Public Service Announcements	45
§2.23	Tracking and Filing Systems	46
§2.99	Chapter Summary	47

Chapter Three:

Developing a Message and Communications Plan

§3.1	Introduction	49
§3.2	The Message	50
§3.3	How the Word “Campaign” Is Used in This Chapter	51
§3.4	Strategic Message Development	51
§3.5	Campaign Message Development	53
§3.6	The Tully Message Box	54
§3.7	The Limits of Message	56
§3.8	Developing a Communications Plan	57
§3.9	How to Do Everything Right and Still Fail— or, Getting “O.J.’ed”	60
§3.10	How to Connect Your Message with Your Audience? S-E-D-A-T-E Them	61
§3.11	Taking Advantage of Opportunities	61
§3.12	Connecting the Message to the Meaningful	63
§3.99	Chapter Summary	63

Chapter Four:

Interacting with Reporters

§4.1	Introduction	67
§4.2	Pitching a Story	68
§4.3	Steps to Pitching a Story	68
§4.4	How to Determine a Reporter’s Interest	69
§4.5	Handling Reporter Calls	71

§4.6	Tips on Talking to a Reporter	72
§4.7	Handling Negative Stories	74
§4.8	Issuing Written Statements versus Doing Interviews— Sometimes Less Is More	77
§4.9	Arguing with the Media	79
§4.10	Common Reporter Problems	80
§4.11	Minnesota—Land of 10,000 Lakes and News Justice	81
§4.12	“Off the Record”	83
§4.13	Off the Record—Glossary	83
§4.14	Using Embargoes	86
§4.15	Dealing with Trade or Specialty Press	87
§4.16	Becoming Friends	88
§4.99	Chapter Summary	89

Chapter Five:

Overview of the Media: Print, Radio, and TV

§5.1	Introduction	93
§5.2	Print Medium	94
§5.3	Where Americans Get Their News	95
§5.4	Fixing a Story after It’s Been Printed . . . in the First Edition	97
§5.5	Daybooks	98
§5.6	Television Medium	100
§5.7	How to Understand Television Ratings	103
§5.8	Live TV/TV Talk Shows/24-Hour Cable Networks	105
§5.9	When to Pitch a TV Station	106
§5.10	Radio Medium	108
§5.11	Radio Talk Shows	109
§5.99	Chapter Summary	112

Chapter Six:

Web-Based and Online Communications

§6.1	Introduction	115
§6.2	The Differences between Old Media and New Media	116
§6.3	Web Communication versus Traditional Communication	118
§6.4	Communicators’ and Visitors’ Goals	118
§6.5	Five Management Principles of Online Communications	120
§6.6	Five Building Blocks of Public Affairs Web Sites	123

§6.7	Sources for Listings of Best Public Affairs Web Sites	124
§6.8	Tracking and Adjusting Your Site	127
§6.9	Accessibility and Web Sites	128
§6.10	Cookies	129
§6.11	Privacy	130
§6.12	Principles of Public Affairs Email and Viral Marketing	131
§6.13	Tips for Email and E-newsletters	133
§6.14	Web Site as Journalist Resource	137
§6.15	How to Connect Off-line Activities with Online Assets	142
§6.16	The Little Web Site that Could	144
§6.17	The Future	146
§6.99	Chapter Summary	147

Chapter Seven:
Dealing with the Principal

§7.1	Introduction	151
§7.2	Developing a Relationship	152
§7.3	Assessing Strengths and Weaknesses	153
§7.4	“They’re Out to Get Me”— Dealing with the Paranoid Principal	154
§7.5	“It’s Not Good Enough”— Dealing with the Media Hog	156
§7.6	“Reporters Aren’t Interested in Me”— Dealing with the Media Mouse	157
§7.7	How to Defuse the Exploding Principal	159
§7.8	“Unofficial” Interactions	160
§7.9	Appreciate that Principals Are Real People	161
§7.99	Chapter Summary	162

Chapter Eight:
Interview Preparation

§8.1	Introduction	165
§8.2	Assessing the Reporter’s Questions	166
§8.3	Additional Sources on Preparing for and Conducting Media Interviews	167
§8.4	Pre-Interview Preparation	167
§8.5	Steps for Interview Preparation	168

§8.6 Preparation Sessions 168

§8.7 Tips to the Principal for Appearing on Television 169

§8.8 Preparing for the Negative Interview 170

§8.9 Tips to the Principal for Various Types of Interviews 171

§8.10 Preparing for the Ambush Interview 172

§8.11 Media Training 174

§8.12 Things to Monitor during the Interview 176

§8.99 Chapter Summary 178

Chapter Nine:
Internal Issues: Experts, Policy,
Numbers, Leaks, Lawyers, and Language

§9.1 Introduction 181

§9.2 Gathering Information from Experts 182

§9.3 Interpreting and Translating Information 183

§9.4 Translating Technical Information into Plain English 184

§9.5 How to Use Numbers 185

§9.6 Potential Message Conflicts with Policy Staff 186

§9.7 Lawyers 188

§9.8 Leaks 190

§9.9 Trial Balloons 191

§9.10 Rogue Press Secretaries 192

§9.11 Motivating Staff with Press Coverage 193

§9.99 Chapter Summary 194

Chapter Ten:
How to Interact with Congressional Campaign Operations

§10.1 Introduction 197

§10.2 Getting to Know Your New Partners:
The Campaign Team 198

§10.3 Role of Consultants 199

§10.4 Merging Policy Message with Campaign Message 200

§10.5 Polls and Policy Positions 202

§10.6 Self-Research 203

§10.7 Use of Congressional Press Clippings in a Campaign 204

§10.8 Campaign Attacks on the Member’s Official Activities 207

§10.99 Chapter Summary 208

Chapter Eleven: Communications in a Federal Agency

§11.1	Introduction	211
§11.2	What's Different about Federal Agencies	212
§11.3	Communicators Guide by the Federal Communicators Network	213
§11.4	The Bureaucracy	214
§11.5	Information Flow: How to Stay Informed	215
§11.6	Freedom of Information Act Requests (FOIAs)	216
§11.7	FOIA References	219
§11.8	Civil Service Professionals, Political Appointees, and Political Events	220
§11.9	Summary of the Hatch Act	223
§11.10	Public Information Campaigns to Change Behavior	224
§11.11	The Greatest Public Relations Challenge: When Government Works	225
§11.99	Chapter Summary	226

Chapter Twelve: Crisis Communications in Public Affairs

§12.1	Introduction	229
§12.2	Preparing for the Crisis—Crisis Communications Plan	230
§12.3	Recognizing the Crisis and Adapting the Organization	232
§12.4	Getting the Boss to Admit the Crisis Exists	233
§12.5	Types of Communications Crises in Public Affairs	234
§12.6	Systemic Crises	235
§12.7	Contrasting Case Studies: Systemic Crisis— Exxon and Tylenol	236
§12.8	How to Use a Web Site in a Crisis	238
§12.9	Adversarial Crises	240
§12.10	Image Crises	241
§12.11	Travel Advisory—How to Avoid Travel Scandals	242
§12.12	Image Crises—Rules When You're Wrong	245
§12.13	Contrasting Case Studies: Congressional Sex Scandals— Barney Frank and Gary Condit	247
§12.14	Image Crises—Rules When You're Right	250
§12.15	Eight Mistakes to Avoid in a Crisis	251
§12.16	Transparency of Motive	253
§12.99	Chapter Summary	255

Chapter Thirteen:
Honest Spin: The Ethics of Public Relations

§ 13.1 Introduction 259
§ 13.2 The Current Ethical Environment in Public Affairs 260
§ 13.3 Ethical Duties of a Public Relations Professional 263
§ 13.4 Common Ethical Challenges 265
§ 13.5 Ethical Choices 269
§ 13.6 Sources for Ethics and Public Affairs 273
§ 13.7 Conclusion 273
§ 13.99 Chapter Summary 274

Back of the Book

Appendix One:
Thirteen Rules of Media Relations 277

Appendix Two:
Glossary 279

Appendix Three:
Public Relations Society of America Code of Ethics 283

Appendix Four:
Your Right to Federal Records: Questions and Answers
on the Freedom of Information Act and Privacy Act
(General Services Administration and the U.S. Department of Justice) 299

Epilogue:
Remember Gunter Schabowski 335

Index 337